

JULY 27, 2020

Hello Lexington students and families,

We're getting closer to the start of school!!! I remember how exciting this is for students and staff as they begin the process of preparing their classrooms, lesson plans for the new year, buying school material, back to school shopping,... This year feels different. Teachers are busy getting their virtual classes ready for the students and are hard at work preparing their lesson plans; however, students and parents still have a lot of questions on how to prepare themselves for the year. Unfortunately, we're not starting the year shopping for back to school materials to bring to school, but now it's about how to prepare ourselves at home. I will be hosting informal chats with me to help better prepare yourselves, answer questions, and give out a lot of information. Our first informal Chat with Principal Klatzker will be this Thursday, July 30 at 6:30pm. The topics we will cover are the following:

- Distance learning - Schedule, Live instruction, learning platforms
- Registration update
- Breakfast / lunch distribution
- Student social-emotional and Mental Health
- IEPs / 504s
- VAPA / Electives
- Textbooks / technology distribution
- Support for families / students

Please be on the lookout for a follow up email with registration instruction for our chat. Hope you can join me and remember, "Keep your face to the sunshine and you cannot see a shadow" - Helen Keller

Continue to stay strong and be well!!

Daniel Klatzker
